Art Griswold Named Grand Marshal Of Springville Rodeo Parade That Will Open Rodeo Weekend On April 7

SPRINGVILLE, Mar. 22 — A cattleman from the Milo district — Art Griswold — has been selected as grand marshal of the 1962 Springville rodeo parade that will open Springville's rodeo weekend at 10 a.m., Saturday, April 7.

Griswold, who was born at San Bernardino but came to Porterville with his family when he was three years old, has run cattle at his foothill ranch and in the high Sierra since 1919.

From 1925 until 1937 he also operated a summer pack station, at first using his ranch as a base, then, in 1928 when a new road was opened into the Balch park area, set up his station at Camp Lena.

In his younger days Griswold rode for the Jeff Carver ranch in the White River country, then, in 1906, went to Lindsay where he worked as a baggage man for the Southern Pacific railroad.

It was at Lindsay that he met, then married, the former Evelyn Lafferty; the Griswolds have two sons, Darwin, who is now associated with his father in the cattle business, and Chet, now a Porterville business man; also two daughters, Mrs. Ray Corzine,

SPRINGVILLE RODEO PARADE ENTRIES TAKEN

SPRINGVILLE, Mar. 22 — Entries are now being received from throughout the southern San Joaquin valley for the western parade that will open Springville's rodeo weekend the morning of April 7, it is reported by "Doc" Clinkenbeard, chairman of the parade committee.

TAKING ENTRIES for the western parade that will open Springville's rodeo weekend, April 7 and 8, is "Doc" Clinkenbeard, parade chairman, who says that "everyone is invited," and that entries can be made by writing to him at P.O. Box 671, and describing the type of entry. The parade will move out through the Springville business area at 10 a.m., Saturday, April 7, and will feature mounted groups and individuals, bands, old-time vehicles, baton twirlers, and fancy riders.

Tempers Flare At Meeting Of Jackass Mail Committee

PORTERVILLE, Mar. 22—Rallying cry for the Jackass Mail was sounded at a recent, unscheduled committee meeting in Porterville's historic Mountain Lion saloon.

"We'll leave no turn unstoned," said Col. Robert Natzke, and committee members quickly and noisely adopted these deathless words as the theme of the Jackass Mail run from Porterville to Springville, March 31.

There was only a single dissenting voice — that of Chet Griswold, president of the Porterville chamber of commerce, who said

COMMUNITY CONCERT ASSOCIATION MEMBERSHIP DRIVE OPENS APRIL 2; CLASSICAL ARTISTS TO BE BOOKED

PORTERVILLE, Mar. 22—Porterville's Community Concerts association, through which a series of classical artists are annually brought to Porterville, is setting up its membership campaign for the 1962-63 season, under direction of Mrs. Ansel Darr, association president.

The actual campaign will be conducted from April 2 through April 7, with headquarters at Jones Hardware open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. daily; pre-campaign solicitation has already been started by the mailing of membership invitations to persons who belonged to the association during the 1961-62 season.

The drive will officially open with a dinner meeting at Smokey's at 6:45 p.m., on Monday, April 2; attending this dinner, and planning to remain in Porterville throughout the membership drive, will be Dorothy Donahue, field representative for Community Concerts association of New York.

Chairman of the April 2 dinner is Mrs. Marvel Weeks, assisted by Mrs. Enid Musick. During a social hour set for 6:15, workers may check in memberships secured during the pre-campaign period.

Persons who purchase 1962-63 association membership will receive a "bonus" concert — the Paganini Quartette, that will ap-

COMMUNITY CONCERT — YES

When you really stop to think about it, a lot of things go on in Porterville — activities that appeal to and draw support from the entire southeastern Tulare county area.

There are civic and social events, many types of organization programs, rodeos, fairs, sports events, school events — in fact anyone with virtually any type of special interest can find something to do in the Porterville community.

One special field — the field of quality, classical entertainment, is served by the Porterville Community Concert association, an organization that is about ready to start its annual membership campaign.

Now of course everyone is not a "longhair"; but there are some who enjoy fine music, and the professional theater arts. Those who do, now have their opportunity to join in a little work, from which they not only get enjoyment later, but also bring a desirable activity to the Porterville community — an activity that many "country" communities do not have.

The community concert series is one of those "desirable" activities that are good for a community. The individual concerts don't usually draw like a championship football game, but the series does provide a bit of culture, presentations by highly skilled artists, and a chance for people of the area to enjoy a bit of the so-called "finer things of life."

And at a season membership fee that is certainly a bargain buy for the items received.

So we urge support of the Porterville Community Concert association, as its members move into their 15th year of successful effort in filling another special niche in life of the community.

THE BEST SPRING TONIC

Our Town

By GARDNER WHEELER

COMB IT, UNCOMB IT, CURL IT, UNCURL IT, RAT IT, VARNISH IT

THERE IS SOMETHING GOING on 'round and about our town that would make your hair stand on end. As a matter of fact, it is this matter of hair standing on end that we are talking about. Specifically, the quaint and wondrous, hay stack hair-dos that are being sported by the younger and not so younger set hereabouts. These amazing sights have proved so startling on occasions, that they have been known to make strong men swear off the flowing cup, only to discover later that the sight was real and not a bad dream.

PECULIAR HAIR-DOS ARE NOT new in the march of history. Some centuries ago, ladies of the French court with not much to do except be courtly and moronic, were addicted to outrageous styles. The more awkward and unwieldy the styling, the more social success was in store for the Countess in question. We all know the outcome of the story. This preoccupation with hairdos, and the tendency to let the peasants "eat cake", caused many of these ladies to lose their heads altogether on Dr. Guillotine's king-sized razor. There seems to be a moral in all this. If the ladies had used their heads for something besides hairdos, they might not have parted company with them so abruptly.

PSYCHOLOGISTS DOUBTLESS CAN explain why young females of the species are enchanted with strange hair arrangements. Possibly they were dropped on their heads when too young, or were denied their Wheaties back in their cradle days. Whatever, the reason, strange coiffures are practically in the epidemic stage, and there seems to be no vaccine to eradicate the disease.

AS WELL AS BEING ODD, these hairdos require a great deal of time and effort. First the victim must wash the hair. At this point, everything is even, because one should wash her hair occasionally anyway. Then, logically a little dye is added. This is not called dye, naturally, but lustre, radiance, charm or something else. The end result is about the same, and the mop comes out of the rinse with highlights of green, or orange or something

Adventure, War, Russia, Mystery Found In New Books

THE CACTUS AND THE CROWN, by Catherine Gavin, is a story of a young American doctor and his nineteen year old sister, southern gentry, who emigrate to Mexico after the American Civil War. An old uncle who lived there had died and left them property—this seems a chance to escape and experience a new life, but the brother and sister have different ideas about what they hope to find there. Among other things, the doctor violently disapproves of his sister's love for a French legionaire. However, in the end it is the sister who triumphs, managing to save both her beloved hacienda and her French husband. This is the March Literary Guild selection.

The final volume of Evelyn Waugh's trilogy on World War II is now available. The first novel was titled MEN AT ARMS, the second OFFICERS AND GENTLEMEN, the last THE END OF THE BATTLE. They are all about an English gentleman in World War II — a war-weary Guy Crouchback sees action in Yugoslavia, remarries his former wife and, after her death, nobly devotes himself to bringing up her child. If you missed the first two, we suggest you read them first, for the sake of the continuity.

Since Russia is forever in the headlines, we mention AZEF, by Roman Goul — this is a novel about a small Russian terrorist group, in the period of 1903-1908, seen through the eyes of a young poet, an idealist, who joins the group and sees enough of blood and treachery to become a defeated cynic. The author, born in Russia in 1896 knows the background of the story very well and makes the incidents, the times and the people come to life. The story may have lost some of its style in the translation.

A mystery with no crime, no detectives and no high adventure -- yet more gripping than many conventional thrillers — this is BACK TO LIFE by Jonothan Wade. George Grey's quiet and comfortable life in London is suddenly disrupted when he sees a ghost in Piccadilly Circus — the apparition of his wife who had been killed eighteen months previously in an airplane crash. The vision refuses to fade away and soon enough other odd and disturbing things happen to make George begin to think it was not a ghost. After all, the wreckage of the plane — and the bodies — had never been found. A real good yarn.

FREEMAN SAYS REDUCE FARM ACREAGE; GIANNINI FOUNDATION REPORT SAYS CALIFORNIA NEEDS MORE FARM ACREAGE

FRESNO, Mar. 22 — While Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman and others in Washington are talking about substantial reductions in farm crop land, University of California economists are highlighting the need for vastly increased farm acreage for California by 1975.

According to George Mehren, director of the Giannini Foundation of Agricultural economics of the university, food demands and an increasing population in the West will require tremendous increases in crop lands in California.

According to Mehren's projection, California acreage increases by 1965 would be about as follows: cotton 520,000 acres, fruits 350,000, feed grains 300,000, and vegetables 150,000.

Mehren's calculations which were given at the first symposium on the future of California agriculture last month, were parallel ot those made in "Projections Relating to California Agriculture in 1975" by Gerald W. Dean and Chester O. McCorkle, Jr., published by the Giannini foundation.

For example, even assuming that California's share of the U.S. production of cotton remained the same as it was in the 1954-57 period, by 1975 California's acreage should be increased 22%, assuming a projected "changed share" of the U.S. production based on trends, California's cotton acreage would be up 68%, according to the study.

Cotton is, of course, subject to acreage allotments which complicate the picture. "Cotton acreage appears to be the largest single uncertain variable in the entire complex of California crop acreage projection for 1975. Furthermore, cotton acreage determines to a large extent the levels of certain other crops (particularly feed grains) grown in the San Joaquin valley", Dean & McCorkle said.

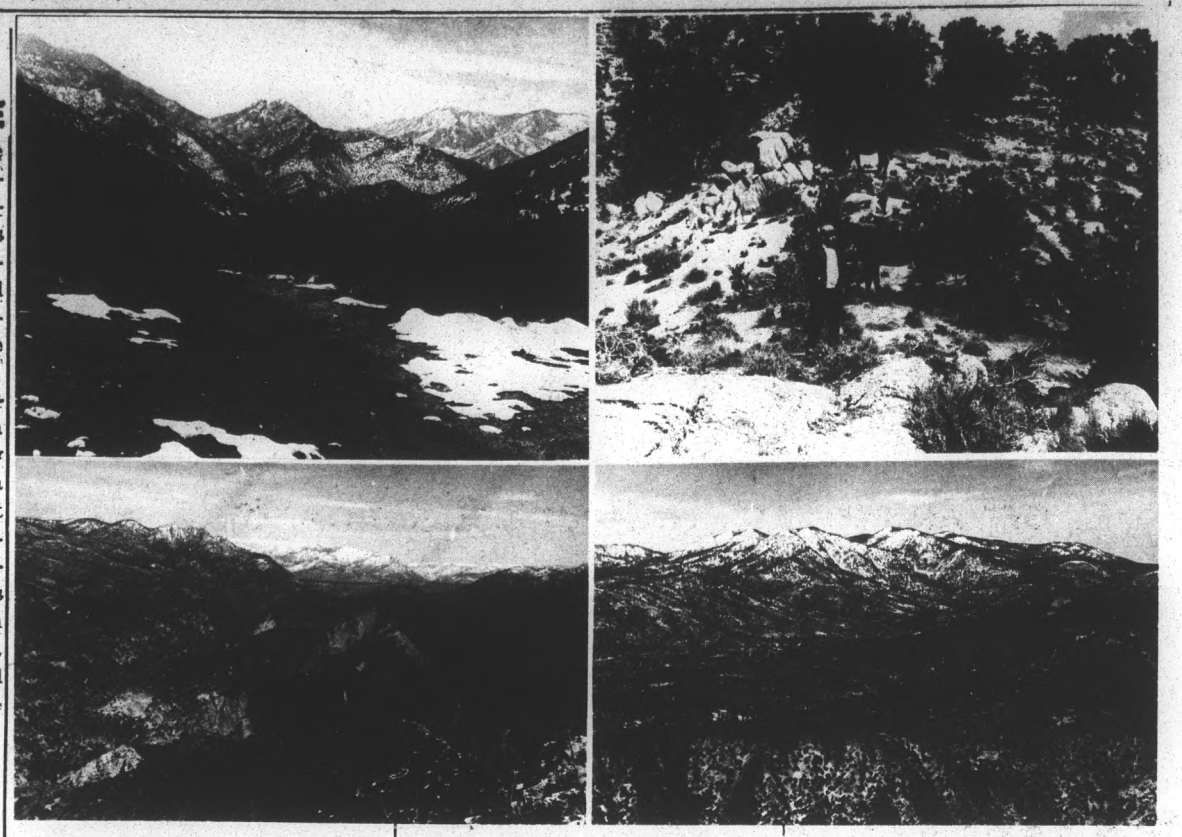

"Failure of the federal government to recognize and act upon this cotton projection not only would cost farmers in California billions of dollars in income, but would cost the merchants, processors, transportation people, manufacturers, oil and electrical firms and others additional billions in lost sales of goods and services", John Arthur Reynolds, general manager of the Central Valley Empire Association, said.

Citrus Meeting At Orange Show Set For Tomorrow

SAN BERNARDINO, Mar 22 — Quarterly citrus section meeting of the California Farm Bureau Federation will be held tomorrow in the administration building of the National Orange Show that is now under way.

"Citrus Production Problems" will be the general theme of the meeting; persons attending will be offered a tour of the new orange products plant, Sunkist Growers, at Ontario.

SCENES ON the winter range of the Monache deer herd - an area that was surveyed over the past weekend by a party of Porterville sportsmen and representatives of the federal bureau of fish and wildlife. From left, top to bottom: Southern end of the Brush creek range; typical country in the Long Valley area; looking up the Kern canyon toward the Trout Meadow country; looking across the Sand Hill Ridge country from the east side of Kern river, with the south side of Slate Mountain at top left, and with Dome rock at top right. Condition of the deer herd was reported as excellent, fawn survival appeared to be good, and range conditions in the Brush creek area were good.

500 Deer Seen On Survey Trip; Monache Herd In Good Condition

PORTERVILLE, Mar. 22—Monache deer herd is reported as being in "real good condition", fawn survival appears high, and range through the Brush creek country in the lower mountain area of the Kern river water shed is in good shape, according to a sportsmen's survey party that completed a horseback trip through the winter range over the past weekend.

An estimated 500 deer were actually seen by members of the group; winter rains that brought a good, early stand of bunch grass is credited for the excellent condition of the herd. There were many indications, however, that predators — lions and coyotes — had been working the herd.

Most of the herd was found in the Brush creek district, where range conditions were good; only a few deer were in the Lamont area, where range conditions are not so good, and have not changed much over the period of several years that Porterville sportsmen have made their survey trips in the late fall, after the herd comes out of the high country, and in the very early spring before the herd returns to its summer range, a range that extends as far north as Sequoia National park.

Two men from the federal bureau of fish and wildlife were in the party — Grant Birmingham and Warren Ahlstrom, whose primary interest was in checking predator damage to the herd.

As a result of the survey, it is likely that a predator control program will be set up next year on the winter range, and predator control in the Little Kern basin will be started by a trapper as the deer herd moves back into the high country.

As an interesting sidelight, the party sighted a "bell deer", one of about 100 that were trapped five years ago by state fish and game officials, belled, and released, in order to check movement of the deer.

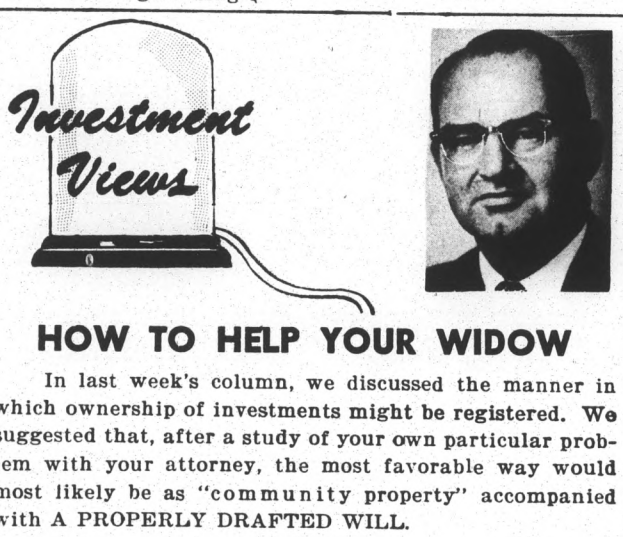

This deer was originally belled in the Sand Hill Ridge area, on the west side of Kern river, but the deer was seen on the east side of the river in the Brush creek area, indicating that, contrary to previous theory, deer will change their winter range.

Others in the party were: John Keck, chairman of the deer committee of the Southern Tulare County Sportsmen's association; Ross Welch, retired game warden, and R. J. Owen, association members; Cooper Smith, of the Sequoia forest; and George Franklin, of Porterville, representing the game management division of the state fish and game department.

The group trailered their horses up the Walker pass road to Canebrake, then into the upper area of Sundown canyon; they rode from there.

Original plan was to ride into the Kennedy meadow area, but heavy snow prevented this.

HOW TO HELP YOUR WIDOW

In last week's column, we discussed the manner in which ownership of investments might be registered. We suggested that, after a study of your own particular problem with your attorney, the most favorable way would most likely be as "community property" accompanied with A PROPERLY DRAFTED WILL.

Any lawyer will confirm this fact: Most men hate to think about wills or to make any move to plan the eventual settlement of their affairs. Death seems remote and is unpleasant to think about. So it's easy to understand why men put off the problem . . . plan "to get at it one of these days."

But they don't. That's why so many men leave their affairs in such a tragic jumble. It's not because their finances or lives are complicated; it's simply because they haven't set up a program that will go into operation automatically upon their death . . . which will dispose of their property exactly the way they want.

But, everyone has a will. One that YOU have prepared, or, if you haven't, one that the STATE has prepared. If you don't decide who is to get what, then the courts have to. If the courts have to, most likely someone quite unfamiliar with the wishes and plans of the deceased must distribute the estate. Why leave to chance that your plans and desires may coincide with existing state law?

Surprisingly, it's fairly simple for a man to work out a sensible, practical and complete plan for the disposition of his property. The main thing is to make the start. "Where there's a will, there's a way."

We have a few pamphlets on this subject. If you would like a copy, please contact . . .

NOW THE VICTIM OF THE disease combs her hair; then she curls it; then she uncurls it; then she combs it. Then, she uncombs it, and this is the whole key to the proposition — how to get that natty, ungroomed look by uncombing one's hair. This procedure is called "ratting" and should not happen to a varmint. Instead of combing forward, you comb backward, and when the mat is nicely snarled, you smooth over the top and add a dash of varnish. The result is about what you would expect.

FADS WILL COME AND FADS will go, and like all bad dreams, these hair styles will pass. All that troubles me is: What will they think up next?

YOUR LEGISLATOR AT WORK!

Senator
J. Howard Williams

The 49 items handed to us by the governor as the menu for our special session, now running concurrently with the budget meeting, promise to produce lively and interesting action. The final outcome on many important measures is still in doubt as I am writing this.

Most of the items call for the introduction of so-called "technical" bills, relating to the organization or functions of various kinds of special districts, or bills to correct inadvertent errors in legislation enacted at our 1961 session. A few seem to result from political pressure for immediate action on matters which otherwise would not require consideration until the regular session in 1963. At least one of the four proposed bond issues is controversial, and legislative conflicts are anticipated on all the remaining major items.

Heading the list of items are the proposed bond issues as recommended in the Governor's budget message which total $820 million. Of this total two issues, one for $270 million for construction of new state buildings, the other $200 million for school construction loans, are scheduled to go on the ballot at the June primary election. The other two, $250 million for veterans' home loans and $100 million for parks and recreation, would go on the ballot in November.

There are already signs that this latter bond proposal is headed for trouble. The senate committee on natural resources, which has held several hearings on the matter, has recommended that a portion of the bond money be especially earmarked for development, rather than purchase of beach and park areas. The feeling has also been expressed that the state park commission has not paid too much heed to legislative directions specifically written into the big park program authorized in 1956. For these reasons, many think that this bond issue will not be approved without a number of legal restrictions on use of its proceeds.

Reapportionment of our state senate is another item that has already created a considerable stir. You will recall my earlier discussion of the recommendations made by the special study commission on this problem, under which any county which has a population exceeding 1.5 million would be entitled to one additional senator for each 1.5 million population or fraction thereof. This proposal has been endorsed by the governor, who included the matter in his proclamation. Once on the agenda for the special session, the entire subject is legislative property, and we can legally take any action on it to which we agree.

Another warm number set before us is regulation of poker playing. Under present law one form of the game, draw poker is legal, though all other gambling games are illegal.

Cities and counties are permitted to control draw poker by ordinance. It is alleged that the number of commercial "poker parlors" is rapidly increasing, and that new state law is needed to aid local authorities in controlling them. This issue has been before us in several recent regular sessions, but no action was taken.

One more knotty problem handed us is whether to reenact the Defense Production act, under which women can be employed by defense industries more than eight hours per day, or 40 hours per week. Women who work in such industries want the law renewed, the employers involved seem lukewarm, and organized labor may express its opinion.

As I said, this special promises to be a lively session.

One of the many good things about gardening is the lack of social form or etiquette required. You may garden in old clothes, run down shoes, or barefoot. In fact you're expected to appear destitute while doing yard work and anyone in better attire is suspect.

Someone will discover this native comfort one of these days and prescribe rules for the gardener of distinction. You may be required to coil the hose from right to left, not drink from the faucet, or hold the manure fork in your right hand. Worse still, you may even be required to hold the gate for your wife while she pushes the wheelbarrow through. We face a troubled future.

Until then, gardening will remain enjoyable and you had better make the most of it. We hope you'll don your old clothes, take off your bundle of troubles, relax, and listen to the bermuda grass grow. When you feel like stirring around, stir down to "E" Street and browse through our joint. The scenery changes every week during the season with different flowers appearing daily.

If you can find a clerk, wake him gently and state your needs. Whether it be flowers, tools, insecticides, or something to green the dichondra, he can tell you where to find it. Self service is permitted, wives and children are welcome. Garden minded relatives must be kept on leash at all times.

FIVE PER CENT PAY RAISE IS ASKED

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 22 — A five per cent pay raise for state employees, retroactive to January 1 of this year, has been asked by Governor Edmond G. Brown in his budget that is now before the state legislature. If granted, the state payroll would be increased to $820 million annually.

The Old Days

REMODELING HAS started on the Hodgson building on Main street, with plans calling for complete modernization - which means that another historical landmark will become a memory. The building was originally constructed by R. Porter Putnam, founder of the city of Porterville, however, Putnam died in 1889 shortly after work had started. The building, however, was finished; it was owned for a time by the old Pioneer bank, then by Fred Ackerman. In 1903 it was purchased by T. L. Price, although he purchased only half of the building and did not acquire all of the property until later. For many years the building housed the Price Hardware company, then, in 1949, was purchased by the Hodgsons - Virgil, Earl and Babe. The building was remodeled by the Hodgsons, and Virgil has conducted a hardware, then a furniture business until recently, when he sold out. Upper photo shows the new building in the early 1890s, looking south - note the raised board sidewalk in front; center picture, also about 1890, shows the front of the building, looking north - and note all those trees on Main street. Left photo at bottom, taken after 1900, shows the twin cupolas that for a half century were a predominate feature of Porterville's business district. Lower right shows the building as it is now. One of the childhood memories of men and women in the community today is of Porterville's Christmas observance in the "old days", when T. L. Price, dressed as Santa Claus, would stand on the balcony of his building and toss candy to the children and parents gathered on Main street below.

Farmers' share of the consumer dollar in October of 1961 was 38 cents, the same as a month earlier; in October of 1960 it was 39 cents.

CHAPEL CHIMES

By Rev. N. J. Thompson

Strange indeed are God's ways. Strange are the people and strange are the tools He uses. A virgin named Mary, fishermen called John and Peter — these plain people were used mightily of God. And how ridiculous have been many of the tools God has used! A shepherd's rod in the hand of Moses, in Samson's the jawbone of an ass, while Gideon's army routed the foe with torches and rams' horns.

But God is greater than the men and tools He uses.

Young John G. Paton heard the call of God to the New Hebrides islands. A Christian friend, trying to dissuade John from going overseas, warned: "You will be eaten by the cannibals!"

"Mr. Dickson, you are advanced in years", Paton pointed out. "Soon you will be laid in the grave, to be eaten by worms. If I can live and die serving the Lord Jesus, it will make no difference to me whether I am eaten by cannibals or worms."

From the moment Paton set foot on the islands, his life was in constant danger. But he learned the language and began telling the savages about the love of God.

Three years later, his colleagues G. N. Gordon and wife were brutally murdered, just as Williams and Harris had been clubbed to death some years before. Paton, however, lived to hear 16,000 converted cannibals sing hymns of praise to God.

RED CROSS PUSHES DRIVE FOR FUNDS

PORTERVILLE, Mar. 22—With two weeks remaining in its 1962 drive for funds, the Porterville Red Cross chapter is pushing efforts to contact every resident in the area.

The response has been good, according to Mrs. Gordon Cone, finance chairman, but more funds are needed to meet the demands made by local residents during the year.

In the nation last year, some 45 million people — youth and adults — showed their faith in Red Cross by their annual contributions to its support, according to Mrs. Pearl Gettier, director of the local chapter. She states that contributions may be made at chapter headquarters at 409 E. Oak.

Professional rodeo paid off $360,844 in prize money during the first two months of 1962.

McCasland Files For State Senate

VISALIA, Mar. 22 — E. D. "Mack" McCasland, Democrat, has filed for the office of State Senator of Tulare county.

E. D. McCasland

McCasland, a farmer and business man, has stated he believes our farm labor-management relations are a very serious threat to the future of our county agriculture, in general, farming. However, he is not for government control of this situation until all other remedies have been tried.

McCasland feels even greater effort should be made in attracting industry of the large payroll groups to Tulare county. This would promote better balance of economy and provide jobs for displaced farm labor, since further automation in the farming industry seems inevitable.

He further points out that our excellent location, in so far as the large state markets are concerned, coupled with a mild climate, should be of interest to many manufacturing groups.

Farmers Must Get Rid of Excess Wheat Acreage

VISALIA, Mar. 22 — Farmers who have excess wheat acreage are reminded that failure to dispose of the excess in accordance with program provisions could have a number of adverse effects — on the farmer's pocketbook and on his farm's acreage history.

Charles Slaughter, chairman, Tulare County ASC committee, said that such a wheat grower not only would be ineligible for price support and any payments he might otherwise have earned under the 1962 wheat stabilization program, but he also would be subject to marketing quota penalties which are much higher for 1962 than in former years, and his farm's future wheat allotments might be reduced.

College YMCA Group Proposed At Committee Meet

PORTERVILLE, Mar. 22—Plans for activating a college Y.M.C.A. program at Porterville were discussed at the Porterville Y.M.C.A. committee breakfast meeting held recently, at Ray's cafe; member "Marty" Martin indicated that the Porterville Breakfast Lions club might assist in this work.

Committee Chairman Chuck Henson ran through a heavy agenda of items, including day camp promotion plans at the new Bartlett Park Camp site, Camp Tulequoia plans, and the formation of "Y" Indian Maidens to parallel the very successful Y-Indian Guide program in the Porterville area.

The committee decided to sell Christmas trees again this year and were pleased to see the dozens of Y.M.C.A. programs active in Porterville.

Treasurer Herman Matzke reported the financial campaign receipts at $3,400 towards the goal of $5,500.

Others attending the meeting were Bill Propp, Dr. Jim Shelton, Bob Brey, Stan Fisher, John Peel and Y.M.C.A. Secretaries Bruce Giffen and Gene Doud.

$100 PRIZE FOR BEST PHOTO OF RECREATION AT SUCCESS

PORTERVILLE, Mar. 22 — A one hundred dollar cash prize is being offered by the Porterville chamber of commerce for the best color picture depicting the scenic beauty and recreational values of Success lake. Any resident of Tulare county may enter this contest according to Chamber President Chet Griswold.

The rules are simple: An 8x10 color photo of the lake, accompanied by the negative, must be mailed or brought to the Porterville chamber of commerce office on or before Friday, May 11. All pictures will be displayed and judged at the Porterville Fair on May 17 and remain on display throughout the fair.

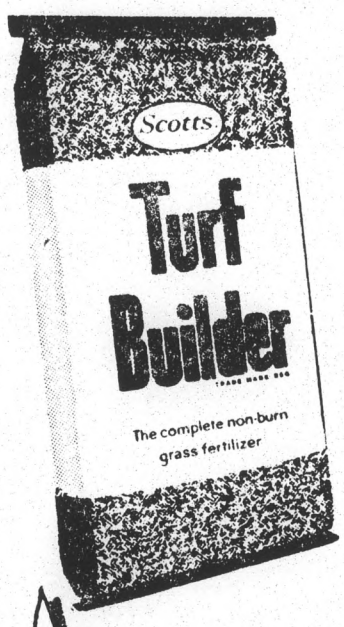

Purpose of the contest is to get the finest pictures possible of the lake. The winning picture will be used as the front cover for a new brochure being developed by a special Chamber of Commerce committee, headed by Vice President Sarrah Traeger. All pictures and negatives entered in the contest will become the property of the chamber of commerce.

APPROVAL FOR CRIPPLED CHILD HOSPITAL CARE

SPRINGVILLE, Mar. 22 — The Springville hospital has been approved for care of chronic illness and rehabilitation of children over five years of age, under the Crippled Children's Service program, it has been announced by Dr. William A. Winn, medical director and administrator of the hospital.

Approval of the Tulare-Kings Counties hospital came through the office of Dr. Charles R. Gardipee, chief of the state bureau of crippled children services.

WHAT WILL HER LIFE BE LIKE IN THE ALL-ELECTRIC FUTURE?

Before her 10th birthday, she'll probably push a button and see a complete meal arrive automatically at the table. By the time she's married, an electromagnetic housekeeper will awaken her, prepare the toast and coffee, open the garage door and warm up the car. These new ideas in modern living depend on electricity.

The electric industry continues to lead in the research to find new ways to produce and use electricity. And logically so. Electricity is our business.

We have already produced it a number of new and different ways, involving the use of fuel cells, nuclear energy, thermionic conversion and magnetohydrodynamics. Whatever the source, electrical energy is limitless, and Southern California Edison will continue to bring you an abundant, dependable supply at the lowest possible rates.

We Only Heard

By Bill Rodgers

HATCHET CREW is moving into the political arena, and the blade has been sharpened for County Clerk Claud Grant. While county offices are not officially sought or held on a partisan basis, it is partisan politics that is at the bottom of the opposition to Grant, since, as county clerk, he has always opposed one of the projects that is dear to the hearts of Democrat party faithfuls — the naming of roving registrars to work the high roads and the by-roads in mass registration of voters, (Democrat voters preferred and sought after.) Grant has reasoned, and logically and justly so, that there is plenty of opportunity for anyone to register, who wants to register, with one of several registrars who serve in all communities of the county. He further points to the record to show that after a brush-beating registration campaign, precinct lists invariably become unduly cluttered with names of persons who, through ignorance or neglect, fail to vote and thus lose their registration. But once a deadbeat name is on the voter registration list, it takes considerable time, and clerical work, to get it off. However, the mass registration of voters is one of the finer aspects of machine politics, and because Grant has been unwilling to go along with machine politics, his own party (Claud is a registered Democrat) is out to get him . . . We predict that there will be all kinds of propaganda smoke screens about the sacred duty of voting, the rights of the people, ets., etc., etc. And the propaganda voice of the Democrat machine, — Mr. K. Clifford, is already sounding the clarion call . . . But as the smoke of battle begins to smudge up the atmosphere and black out the real issue, just remember that Grant has been a dedicated and competant public official.

UNDERSTAND THAT a few wheels within wheels have been turning in county chamber of commerce circles, with the result that the dedication of Tulare county's two dams — Terminus and Success — on May 18, is gaining momentum in the direction of Success. It now appears that the Success dam dedication will be in the afternoon, that the official party of VIPs will remain in Porterville for dinner, then take in the show, and grab a little spotlight, at the Porterville fair. And there may be another innovation at the Success ceremony: It is just possible that major recognition, instead of going to politicians and federal and state bureau officials, may be given a few farmers along the Tule who were the real fighters for Success dam; and it is just possible, further, that the community chambers of commerce along the Tule will also be invited to accept at least a small place in the sun. Imagine that!

BILL COBURN, Porterville's city manager for two and a half years, attended his last meeting of the city council Tuesday night; Saturday and Sunday the council will screen applicants for the city manager job; Coburn leaves the city the end of this month; a new city manager will come in then, or soon after . . . We have never envied the lot of a city manager, for in California their official, average life is only three or four years in any one place. The job brings many pressures; it naturally creates animosities, since "you can't please 'em all", and a city manager is often in a position of being unable to defend himself personally since he is merely the executive officer of the city trying to implement policies set by the elected councilmen . . . Perhaps this is summarized into a single word, "politics", and certainly politics is the great occupational hazard of any city manager . . . We can look back about three years and see the city administration as it was then; we think some improvements have been made — in fact one of these days we'll list a few; we can look back over the past year in which city administration at the council level has suffered to some degree because of lack of experience, and lack of background, on the part of newly elected council members. We can look ahead, as a new city manager comes along, and see him facing virtually the same basic problems, and the same situations, that Coburn has faced, and we can see that occupational hazard of politics eventually catching up with him also . . . But along the future way we hope we also see a little less of the starry-eyed and impetuous approach to city affairs by city council members, and a bit more of firm direction.

presently set up for bands, baton twirlers, single riders, fancy riders, riding groups and old-time horse-drawn vehicles.

"Other classifications will be added if needed to accomodate persons who want to appear in the parade," Clinkenbeard said. "We are inviting everyone to Springville, and we'll accept any kind of entry."

The parade will move out through the Springville business district at 10 a.m. on Saturday, April 7; parade units are to be in place at 9:30 a.m., according to Clinkenbeard; assembly area will be in the vicinity of the Springville elementary school; the parade will end at the Veterans' memorial building.

Persons desiring to enter the parade can write to Clinkenbeard, P. O. Box 671, Springville.

Springville's rodeo weekend will open with the morning parade; the annual RCA-approved rodeo is slated for the new Springville Rodeo bowl the afternoon of April 7 and 8.

Word from the Springville chamber of commerce is that a spectacular display of wildflowers is beginning to appear in the foothills, and that by the April 7-8 weekend, the country "should be at its beautiful best."

Tempers Flare

that he had thought of the theme slogan first, and that the colonel was attempting to crowd him out of the glory lane.

Col. Natzke, his southern blood running hot, threatened to withdraw his Confederate cannon, and troops, from the Jackass Mail event, "if them dam Yankees keep a stickin' their nose into ma' business," but tempers were cooled in approved Mountain Lion Saloon manner.

In other mentionable business of the special meeting, Joe Doctor, author of "Shotguns On Sunday", and a past president of the Tulare County Historical society, was unanimously named "Historical Research Specialist and Recorder of Facts and Fantasy" for the Jackass Mail.

Doctor is now reputed to be locked in a mountain hideaway, delving deeply into the legends of Jackass Mail as it existed in the days of the California Gold Rush. His report is expected to be sufficient reason for another Mountain Lion saloon meeting.

Meanwhile, an official session of the Jackass Mail committee has been called by Griswold for 8:30 a.m., Friday, in the office of the Porterville chamber of commerce; presiding with him will be Wes Kutzner, president of the Springville chamber of commerce.

The Jackass Mail will run from Porterville to Springville on the morning of March 31, with Domer Power, president of the county chamber of commerce, working as teamster. Lyle Attebury will ride a special Pony Express run; Ed Jones is lining up a cavalcade of Horseless Carriages; a chuck wagon lunch will be served along the way.

All riders and riding groups are invited to participate, going all the way, or joining the Mail along the route. In charge of riders is John Keck.

Western clothes will be the costume of the day — and what is more western than those Centennial outfits that Porterville people wore last year?

Time schedule, route, and other details will be worked out at the Friday morning meeting. The Jackass Mail run will officially open Western week in Springville, pointing toward the Springville rodeo weekend — April 7 and 8.

Announcement of the Springville Rodeo queen, and her attendants, will be made at the Coronation ball, set for the Springville Memorial building the evening of March 31.
